VIENNA MOURNS
FOR ROYAL DEADBODIES OF SLAIN HEIR AND WIFE
ARE ESCORTED TO THE IM-PERIAL CHAPEL.

KAISER IS NOT PRESENT

STUDENTS RIOT IN THE STREETS
NEAR WHERE SOLEMN COR-
TEGE PASSES.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Vienna, July 2.—The bodies of the murdered Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, duchess of Hohenberg, arrived at the Southern Railway station here on board a special train from Trieste. Prince Montenuovo, the court chamberlain, and other high officials were in waiting.

Escorted by halberdiers and life guardsmen the coffins were carried to the imperial waiting room, which had been converted into a temporary chapel, where they were blessed by court chaplains. They were then carried out and placed in two great black court hearses.

The funeral procession, which meantime had formed outside, started for Hofburg. Two outriders, carrying lighted lanterns, led the cortege. They were followed by an advance guard of cavalry. Then came an official on horseback, known as the "Hofinspanier," dressed in the picturesque costume of a Spanish cavalier.

The court carriages were next in line. Two riders preceded the hearses, each of which was drawn by six black horses. On either side walked non-commissioned officers and court lackeys. A special guard of twelve halberdiers and twelve mounted life guardsmen with drawn swords followed the hearses, and two carriages with the suites of the archduke and the duchess completed the cortege.

No troops were stationed along the route, but the procession made its way between the lines of a moving military guard. At the Hofburg the master of ceremonies and the palace clergy awaited the cortege at the foot of the ambassadors' staircase, and walked slowly forward to meet it, preceded by the boy choir of the court chapel, chanting "Miserere."

After a short benediction the chamberlain of the late archduke handed the keys of the coffins to Prince Montenuovo; the chapel was locked and all departed.

It was officially announced to the disappointment of the Viennese populace, that an attack of lumbago prevented the German emperor from attending the funeral.

The anti-Servian agitation, which is becoming an exceedingly dangerous symptom, shows no sign of abating. Even while the funeral cortege was on its way to the Hofburg, hundreds of excited students were engaged in a desperate struggle with the police to reach the Servian legation, within three blocks of the procession.

For Bad Burns.

Don't thrust a burned foot or hand into cold water. It relieves for a moment, only to be followed by an increase of pain, peeling off of the cuticle, and very frequently by ulceration of the wound. Don't tie up in a dry cloth; all woven material is porous and admits air. Don't drag off the clothing. Don't rub or cut off the hanging skin. Your object when called upon to treat a burn is at once to exclude air. For this purpose nothing is better than oil of some sort. Paraffin is not a bad thing, or vaseline, or common olive oil, or lard and butter, if both be entirely without salt. —First Aid for Everyday Accidents.

Marital Reciprocity.

He—My dear, I have invited my mother to spend the week with us.

She—Oh, James, I'm not prepared for company. Why did you ask her now?

He—Because I am determined you shall not have this mother-in-law joke all to yourself.

Impossible.

He—My dear, our neighbor, Mr. Smith, the paper says this morning, is a bachelor of arts.

She—Then the paper doesn't know what it's talking about. You know as well as I do that Smith is a married man.

The Retort Courteous.

"When you look at me, my dear, your eyes always have a stupid expression."

"That is, without doubt, my dear, because they always reflect your adorable image."—Pages Folliès (Paris).

HIT THE SPOT.

Postum Knocked Out Coffee Ails.

There's a good deal of satisfaction and comfort in hitting upon the right thing to rid one of the varied and constant ailments caused by coffee drinking.

"Ever since I can remember," writes an Ind. woman, "my father has been a lover of his coffee, but the continued use of it so affected his stomach that he could scarcely eat at times.

"Mother had coffee-headache and dizziness, and if I drank coffee for breakfast I would taste it all day and usually go to bed with a headache.

"One day father brought home a pkg. of Postum recommended by our grocer. Mother made it according to directions on the box and it just "hit the spot." It has a dark, seal-brown color, changing to golden brown when cream is added, and a snappy taste similar to mild, high-grade coffee, and we found that its continued use speedily put an end to all our coffee ills.

"That was at least ten years ago and Postum has, from that day to this, been a standing order of father's grocery bill.

"When I married, my husband was a great coffee drinker, although he admitted that it hurt him. When I mentioned Postum he said he did not like the taste of it. I told him I could make it taste all right. He smiled and said, try it. The result was a success, he won't have anything but Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled—15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. Made in the cup with hot water—no boiling—30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.
